

Rolling Away the Stone

We used to live in a country that had the possibility of life, and this has been converted into a war mongering beast that must start wars without ever being legitimately attacked by anyone. The military is no longer valid, as with Congress, and if not ██████████, the dire future holds no bounds to the corruption and killing ahead. The true terrorists are the assumed leaders in your community including the palavers who work for them who refuse to stand ground for the innocent, and display true empathy for life in all forms, and to resists vigorously the warring corporations of greed, which has become the anti-Christ, the new chrisom for the beasts.

It is assumed that the depression can be thwarted, as often displayed in the false media (includes all televised communication) where things will get better over time. This is a lie, as the damage has been done, and I feel this is crucial for you in understanding our current environment, and enabling you to make some type of decision not only for my future, but yours as well. I, as you may already know, am extremely upset about the fact that so many people have become so ignorant as to the truth of life, especially the so-called American, who is droved by submission, and assumed reality. If a majority of people were to become enlightened, they would have none of the things that are currently occurring, which computes to the looting of the country in complexity.

When you are affected directly, as I have been, it has more weight, and this is chained to the beasts that entice those who still have a good job of believing it will all get better and my children will not be corrupted. Unfortunately, this is a horrible illusion, as most of the younger people are struggling just to survive and feed the beasts their demands for rich corporations to make profits even if most of the civilization is destitute and dying. There is talk now that the states may soon begin to break away from the union, as many are broke. When this begins to occur, watch closely for another false flag operation, such as a bogus terrorist attack that would enable the beasts to start rounding up truthers and placing them into the thousands of concentration camps ready and waiting, complete with gas chambers. This also can be documented, so please understand I base this judgment on data readily available including photos, etc.

Unfortunately, you will not see many palavers being rounded up, on the contrary, they will attempt to keep people in the wooden churches and quiet, for their fear is too great, and they are too asleep. Most do not stand against war, they embrace it in a false fantasy and myth they will be saved. Let me help you clear this up. Most preachers are palavers, but not all. Some are just ignorant of history, science, etymology, and psychology. They do not realize they are leading the stray; they assume their navigation will provide the answers, yet they too are quite wrong, and this leads to the demise of truth, as love will not save you alone. This can be confirmed by addressing torture, which has not been resisted by religions, and clearly unacceptable.

If we are all loosing our livelihoods little by little, then is it to be assumed that this problem can be solved by doing nothing, and to just rely on faith alone? Faith is not bound to wood, it is bound to the body of conscience and trust. This has been removed from our environment and replaced with corruption and greed, and the mystic that keeps the palaver in his cozy nest. It will become more difficult to trust those who are being paid by rich corporations who are in fact government run institutions for profits, as they will be willing to lie much more easily to others and especially to themselves for fear they too will have to face truth head on realizing they are just food navigators for the beasts. I can tell you, as of this time, I have become educated to some degree about history, and especially religious history which is strongly tied to our linguistic happenings, our stronghold beliefs, and the existing monotheistic assimilation. In order to educate others about truth it is often assumed one size fits all, but this is not possible, as those who are (50 or older) must be addressed with a modified curriculum of information outside of media. If this is not done, they remain uneducated. Those under 50 require a different curriculum of educational information outside the media, as they have more time to contribute, and also adjust to the real changes that lay in the middle of the road ahead.

It seems our society is also divided in another way; two main groups, on one side is the right wing representative of those who control it with money and the desire for war. This can be documented easily, just look at the recent terror attacks from right wing extremists, of which you may not have heard much about. They killed an abortion doctor, and shot a security guard. They represent the confusion of that realm pushed by the beast's pundits on the false media such as FOX's talking heads O'Reilly, and Beck who are very wealthy palavers. They push the insanity effect, resulting in the few who have been oppressed losing their cookies when they could have just stopped watching TV to solve their problems.

On the other side, the left wing of the Faust is the obedient side to the right, yet they would not admit it. They operate the nihilism for the right, in effect creating the house of the beasts. When these two effects are applied to each other, a bubble of confusion results where truth is hidden from view and everything is assumed normal when it is far from it. It is now quite obvious and documented that the political parties have no value and should be abolished to create a fair and open representation of life that is not bound to the corporation. The majority of Americans would approve of this immediately, but have no representation as the palavers are quite thick. Any type of comfort is effectual and leads to hiding the truth.

We cannot assume the historical record literally, especially the ancient and transferred texts related to Gods, and Messiahs. It is unethical to condemn life, as this is the beast. This shows us that wars are the beasts, and enemies are created by the beasts. I live a life as a vegetarian, and this helps to separate out the confusion of the body, which the beasts condemn. The body has become available over the church as a formation of cover, and organized from long ago. It is not easy to assimilate, but with work, this can be understood. The word "church" appears in only the New Testament and may actually represent the human body, as this is the predominant sense when studying the passages held there that contain the reference. The city of David may represent the sun at the center of our solar system and the mercies we are no longer entitled to. This tells us we are headed straight into serious climate change which may represent a little or big ice age which history confirms. Having said that, please know that life will survive an ice age, just not much in America, as it will consist mostly of ice if this occurs. Know that temperatures are already beginning to drop all over the world as expected. You may research the lack of merciful sunspots easily online.

Does this help explain global warming? In retrospect, it should be self-explanatory, remember the beasts and their house? You will now be taxed to death for all their faults as though citizens were at fault. Please know that those who have studied these things will tell you that industry and corporations violate earth at percentages compared to citizens around (80-90% more) just about in all cases, so in effect, citizens themselves have no real bearing at all, and are punished for others to remain in power. So what is being used up is the fault of corporations not citizens, you yourself have no bearing on what is being stolen and sold to you. In light of this, we must realize that it is our cooperation and acceptance of available goods that binds us to the beasts. Without this, they immediately die. This explains the recent new laws pertaining to food and other things. I cannot assume that banks are more critical to life than people are but only through a slavery system for the beasts that have manifested themselves for the anti-Christ who is anything but human.

In the misinterpretation of Biblical history, it is now apparent that Israel is using the anti-Christ as a tool of greed to oppress all its neighbors, in effect, a self-glorification based on myth, and untenable creations of knowledge built from the wormwood and documentation of their crimes is excessive and valid. Most of their citizens are against this stance but have no power. The mainstream media however tells an appropriate story for the Faust house. A massive force of Christians who are no such thing has mounted and inside the mix rests a foundation of people who are misguided and uninformed who represent the majority. Many of the fringes are more exposed to the prevailing system of false knowledge conversely changing the elements of what religion and living a balanced life actually must possess, and what are the consequences.

Psychologically, history and the Holy Bible have sent the signal that at least some elements of historical text bears some truth in at least we know that evil is real and its sense of being has become the ruling power of this period in time. But we cannot assume that the body of the beasts have won the hearts of all man-kind based on misinterpretation of death and the assumption of credibility over any form of life. Without each other there is nothing to live for. In the assumed sense, the beasts are lying, and it is all about the flesh. This has mutated the meanings hidden in the Bible itself into a new form of acceptable crucifixion in which the new church has been built.

Much of historical record shows the Exodus never occurred, and is somehow based on other knowledge, possibly coded or a mythological symbolization for purposes yet unknown. History has also shown that Israel (the claimed Jewish empire) never existed where it is located today, and Jewish decedents were never in Egypt during those times, it was another race referred to as Khazars. These races are a representation of man-kind racing to his demise. What's to say that the Exodus is not occurring now? Would you know the difference? Many of those who claim their cloth rant about the value of the Torah, and the Old Testament's mean and old God, yet this is analogical to the left wing of the faust beast, while the new church is overflowing with desire to be saved from the midst of the cloud.

In this case, the new church is using the body as food, where in reality, the body is the church, and this is referring to the animal body or Homo sapiens where the beasts reside. This is only one interpretation, there are many. The current interpretations are attributing the demise of all life by ignoring the truth, and that truth does not come easily, nor is the truth available without serious work to remove the veils that have been sewn in place. For me, it took years just to find to correct path to take to begin while learning how to accept it and realize that as a human, I was unimportant and that the beast's downloads had failed. Most never seek the answers and remain oblivious to truth as it is much easier to make-up your own in which the beasts are more than happy to assist you with. This now is the food and death they most desire for all life now occurring around the world, killing has become a sport as children sit in their computer trailers playing war games on the other side of the planet without ever seeing a drop of blood they spill. If this is allowed to continue, the entire planet will be consumed by the machine, leaving a few white folks who have lost their way out of a nightmare they created themselves; and no one will be going anywhere.

We must understand propaganda, as with the Air Force media campaign telling the mind that killing is something we do everyday without telling you it is killing, and of course the Bible has been rewritten for an issue that has never been distributed, for at least the commandments do hold value, and especially when killing is mutated into bazaar formations of acceptable killing, or the euphemism war is peace, and killing things can be beneficial under certain paraphrases.

Now that we know the demise of our economy is unavoidable, the palavers will increase the dosage of sleeping pills and spew out the story of the end times, when this is a distraction for the beasts, and to assume they have control. Their power can be popped like a zit, you just have to know where to look for it, although the pain associated with starving cannot. So you see, I have become an old man, and one who has attained at least some valuable knowledge that should be available for those who may need to grow, as this is the way.

I now will close this letter and let you know that I am extremely upset and worried about the present circumstances that I feel trapped within and subject to. In a normal scenario, a family would ensure their children had a place to live within means, or a way to survive. So that you are aware, I am in perfect health, except I have no teeth, of which is preferred. In my life or religion as you call it, I will only need a doctor who is a Naturopathic physician if ever, and this would not lead to the current deprived medical system, as it is forbidden. It does not matter if one is Khazar or Minnonite, a creation at least partially of the Anabaptist concept, and at least they were smart enough to know that the system that has been created serves as food for the beasts that the living feed from for their pleasures. However, the condemnation remains in the cloud.

What will happen to me I do not know, or if you will be able to help in some way to solve the unavoidable deterioration of all plausible solutions that lead nowhere with powers that be holding us bound to the beasts of burden. Money has no value unless we give it value by using it in preferred ways that undoubtedly have become food for both the body and mind over all others. Please be sure and read this letter as soon as possible as time is limited in making sound decisions, as my savings is quickly expiring, and I must at least plan as far ahead as possible to ensure my safety, even if this requires extreme measures.

It is uncertain how long it will be before things get really bad, as with the current flow, mandatory inoculation are being propagated throughout the communication people have accepted as legit, when this has clearly broken all human and ethical boundaries of decency, and will be resisted at the highest level. Many assume that Flu and other illnesses are affected on their own, and that the information that is taught in all universities is valid, yet this is easily documented as untrue. This helps to confirm that you are food and will eventually be eaten and most of this is effected upon your children who you assume will live a full life after your dead and happily in heaven, but that is not what has been taught, or at least learned from the historical records of life pertaining to any savior or possible Exodus that would be worthy of mention.

I hope to hear from you soon, however, my situation will be the same, and my future unknown and certainly frightening. The beasts have created a world in which time only works against everything we do, and it seems the other way around as the illusion. In the midst of this lays the corrupted monetary god of assumption. I care little about the junk accumulated in my life except for the literature I have collected, as nothing else will ever matter to any hill of beans.

I await your response and discussion of possible solutions to maintaining some method of livelihood that would sustain for the time being.

 Anyone
may read this letter if they ask to, I am not the only person who is suffering, and there are many who are suffering much more due to the situation that has been briefly outlined.

Love guides knowledge,

July 17, 2009

PS A palaver is defined as someone who often but not always displays a chatter that seems idle, (like a motor) while intending to charm you in a beguiling manner which is deception.
